PrismHR recently experienced a security incident that affected its payroll and benefits technology platform. Upon learning of the incident, we immediately took steps to further protect and strengthen the security of our systems. Since the company first became aware of the situation, we commenced an internal investigation with the assistance of cybersecurity firms and have been methodically working to determine the scope of the incident and securely restore those systems to operation as quickly as possible.

Although our investigation is still ongoing, we can report that there is currently no evidence of unauthorized access, misuse or theft of data contained on its servers. We will continue to provide additional information to our HR service providers as it becomes available.

We appreciate your continued patience and support.

Thank you,
